

CALMet
Online
Event 2018

These are online collaboration sessions for trainers in the field of meteorology. Participants can submit current training projects which they would like to discuss with other trainers; much of the workshop then focuses on generating ideas about how to actively engage our learners.

We will record and share the ideas, examples and discussion with everyone who participates in each one-hour session.

COMING SOON!

We are now preparing for our next series of workshops which begin in June, so we invite everyone to submit projects for discussion. We are also interested in reviewing specific plans for training events and in helping trainers come up with exercises for the learners.

THE DESIGN WORKSHOPS

If you are working on a training project for which you would like more ideas, especially ones which help to actively engage your learners, please fill out this form:
